

HARRIS RELEASED.

The Warrant Against the Fuel Gas Man is Withdrawn and He is Discharged.

[Cincinnati Enquirer, December 29th.]

W. H. Harris, of New York City, inventor of gas-making machines and developer of land schemes and corporations, whose sensational arrest took place in this city on a bench warrant issued at New York charging him with being a fugitive from justice, will this morning walk from the county jail a free man.

Thus ends a case which, during its run, attracted attention throughout the East and West.

The document releasing Harris was received last evening by Sheriff Archibald. It came as a telegram from Governor McKinley and reads as follows:

COLUMBUS, OHIO, December 28, 1894.

To the Sheriff of Hamilton County, Cincinnati, Ohio: This day, upon request of the Governor of New York, I hereby revoke the warrant heretofore issued by me for the arrest of W. H. Harris, and the delivery of said Harris to Philip Reilly, the agent of the State of New York, the said warrant having been issued by me December 19, 1894.

You will return said warrant to me without delay, and acknowledge receipt of this dispatch.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

Following the above came another telegram which read:

"Get answer or reason, ours to-night to Sheriff of Hamilton County."

To this Sheriff Archibald replied: "Yours received, will execute warrant as requested."

ROBERT M. ARCHIBALD,

Sheriff of Hamilton County."

From the above it is plain to be seen that the New York prosecutors of Harris have failed to make out a case against him, and are now anxious to take their hands off.

Of Harris it may be said that he has all along protested his innocence of any wrong-doing, and would be able at the proper time to so declare himself publicly.

The arrest of Harris in this city, about two weeks ago, was at the instance of Charles Blandin, of New York, a stockholder in the Natural Gas and Iron Company of New Jersey, which is the lessee of the American Gas Company, whose headquarters are at Washington, D. C.

Of the latter company J. N. Huston, ex-Treasurer of the United States, was President and a heavy stockholder. Previous to Harris's connection with the above company he was the owner of a fuel gas plant at Maysville, Ky., and was at the same time connected with a number of land schemes, including a coal and coke concern in West Virginia.

Nearly all of the above ventures proved disastrous to the stockholders, by reason of which large sums of money were lost. Through them all, however, nothing of a criminal nature was ever proved against Harris. The causes leading up to the arrest of Harris in this city arose chiefly through the inability of the stockholders in the latest scheme to realize any profit on their investment.

Harris had strenuously contended that this was no fault of his, but the stockholders were still dissatisfied, and the result was an investigation.

Upon the testimony of Blandin and others an indictment was found, and, Harris being absent from the State of New York, a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice was issued. He was arrested in this city in a house on Eighth street, near Vine, upon information furnished by the police of New York. At the time he was seriously ill, and his removal to New York was impossible. However, a requisition was issued on Governor McKinley, and Sergeant Detective Phil Reilly sent here to bring him back. A few days ago, upon orders of Colonel Deitch, he was removed to the county jail and placed under the care of the sheriff.

At 9 o'clock this morning he will be released.

Previous to departing from the jail Harris was seen by an Enquirer reporter, and said: "This persecution and prosecution will result in nothing but money to me. The conspiracy to secure the patents I own fell through, as you see, and now my operations in the courts will begin. Several Cincinnati people will be sued, as well as persons in other places. I am all right, and have at all times been able to prove my innocence, and am going to do it."

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy, than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

A FIRE ON FOREST AVENUE.

The New Two-Story Frame House of Mr. Andrew Hunter Damaged Saturday.

A year ago last spring Mr. Andrew Hunter had two one-story frame cottages on Forest avenue destroyed by fire. On one of the lots he erected a two-story-double frame dwelling and this new building had a narrow escape from destruction Saturday.

The east half of the building was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and the west half by Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Fronk and Mr. Fronk's mother, Mrs. Sallie Fronk.

About one o'clock the house was discovered on fire. The blaze had started in the second story of the Fronk residence, from some coal that rolled out of a grate.

The Amazon Fire Company promptly responded and soon extinguished the flames.

Mr. Hunter places the damage to the building at $500. It was insured for $1,000 in the Germania, Messrs. Boulden & Parker agents. His furniture and carpets were somewhat damaged by the water.

Most of Mr. Fronk's furniture and household goods were gotten out without damage, and his loss is small. He had no insurance. He and his wife and mother desire to return sincere thanks to their neighbors and friends for their kindness and for the valuable assistance in saving the household goods.

MONEY IN POTATOES.

The Pittsburg Dispatch Gives Some Figures That Will Prove of Interest to Farmers.

The Pittsburg Dispatch relates an instance of the profit of potato growing. The crop was from a 160 acre farm, and more than one-third of which was planted with potatoes. Three months after planting, the farmer had filled a contract for 12,000 bushels of potatoes at sixty cents a bushel, and had $7,200 in the bank. Another farmer raised 5,000 bushels on twenty acres, or over 250 bushels per acre, and received $3,000 for the crop. These yields are exceptionally large, though not beyond the range of possibility on good potato land in a good season.

There is a farm near Moravia, Cayuga County, adds the Dispatch, which the owner permitted his son-in-law to occupy for twenty years free of rent. The shiftless occupant was then obliged to leave because he could not make a living upon it. Then the owner sold it to an Irish farmer, who had raised potatoes in his native country. It was a large farm near the village and the price was high, but in three years he had it clear of debt. Twenty acres in wheat would produce from 400 to 500 bushels, now worth about sixty cents a bushel. The owner of a good potato crop has a reasonable chance of prosperity, even in these times of agricultural depression. It is a queer fact, however, that there are very few years in which American farmers raise enough potatoes to go around, and that car-loads have to be imported.

REV. J. A. BROWNING, of the Christian Church at Decatur, Ohio, was living at Lexington not long ago, where he met Miss Hulda Evans, an attractive young lady of that place, and suggested to her that he knew a widower who would make a good husband. "Bring him along," said she, "and if he suits I'll have him." The enterprising minister stipulated that he should perform the ceremony, and then brought forward Mr. Joseph Beasley, a prosperous farmer of Henry County. The marriage took place at the Willard Hotel, in Louisville December 27th, Elder Browning officiating.
